1873 - 1973

Blake Hall — 1924-1925

Almost one hundred years ago Mr. S.S. Norton founded The Mount Vernon Military and Classical Academy, and with about ten students enrolled, began the operation of a private school in the area of Morgan Park-Washington Heights south of the city of Chicago. Following a grant of land from the Blue Island Company in 1874, the name of the school was changed to Morgan Park Military Academy after the name of the early owner and settler of the land in this area. Funds for the operation of the school were solicited from residents of the village, and the school progressed.

Surprisingly little is known of those early days. The school did live up to its obligation to provide " . . . for an English classical and military academy for boys," and was able to construct at least two buildings, Park Hall, on the site of the present gymnasium, and Drill Hall, immediately south of the gym. For almost twenty years the Academy continued, though the legend at the turn of the century was that it had been founded on a bluff and was operated on the same principle. Together with The Female Academy and the Baptist Union Theological Seminary, both founded during those early years, the Academy provided education for the children of families in this largely unsettled area.

Apparently, most of the records regarding the school were destroyed in a fire which demolished the main Academy building in 1894. Sketchy (and even contradictory) records indicate that the school had almost closed in 1890, but did manage to survive between 1890 and 1892 due to the diligent efforts of Mr. W.B. Owen who assembled and tutored students in the facilities of the Theological Seminary. Although the name was never officially changed, references are made at this time to the "Owen School." Fortunately for the Academy, however, a greater plan was in the making. Nearly four years of dreaming, planning, and effort were about to culminate in the founding of the new University of Chicago under the presidency of William Rainey Harper. Among the conditions set forth by Dr. Harper in accepting the post were that, "The Theological Seminary be removed to the campus of the University," and, "The Seminary buildings at Morgan Park be used for a University Academy." When this "new" Academy opened its doors in September of 1892, a total of ninety-nine young men and women were enrolled, and the school prospered.

Thus it was that for fifteen years, the school, now called The Morgan Park Academy of The University of Chicago, was directly affiliated with The University and subsidized by it. Interesting enough, as an integrated, coeducational, college preparatory school, the Academy today is more similar to this early school character than it has been at any other time. During this period both Harry Delmont Abells and Haydn Evan Jones came onto the faculty and began an association with the Academy which was to span a period of fifty years.

Declining female enrollment by 1900 brought about a change which restricted attendance to boys only, but within a few years enrollment had leveled off at slightly below two hundred. The University had subsidized the Academy throughout these years, but it felt it could no longer do so. Following the death of Dr. Harper in 1907, the President of the University of Chicago announced the closing of the University Academy at Morgan Park.

East Hall

Post Exchange — 1928-1929

During 1907-1908, the property was leased to a retired army captain, George L. Byrode, who, with Colonel Abells, conducted a military school for one year. In 1908-1909, Colonel Abells operated the school himself, and then in conjunction with several other men, continued the school under private management. These were hard times, but with financial support from the community and through the dedicated efforts of these men, the school managed to survive.

In December of 1914, a charter was granted by the State of Illinois for a Board of Trustees to conduct the Morgan Park Preparatory School as a not-for-profit educational institution. Prominent civic leaders in the area (among them, J.C. Hansen, Horace Horton, Robert Thompson, Enoch J. Price, James Pitt, and Colonel Abells) were selected to direct the destinies of the school which in 1919, officially changed its name to Morgan Park Military Academy. Until almost 1950, the Academy continued under the capable direction of Colonel Abells and Colonel Jones, and was repeatedly recognized as one of the leading military schools in the Midwest — if not the nation.

But even as major changes had taken place at least three times already, further change was in store for the distinguished and reputable military school. Times were changing, and far-sighted community leaders and educators could foresee the coming decline of boarding schools, of military schools, and of all-boy schools. Prompted by concern for the future of the Academy and plagued by declining enrollment, decreasing revenues, and a deteriorating physical plant, the Academy Board of Trustees under its chairman, Mr. Arthur Horton, decided upon a bold course of action. And the Academy was about to enter its fourth major developmental stage.

Convinced that an independent school did have a place in this south side community, the trustees also were convinced that it had to be a top flight school with a high quality curriculum, first rate teachers, and competent students, all toward realization of a single objective: to provide the finest college-preparatory education possible for the students enrolled. And in the face of opposition, the trustees were determined to let nothing stand in the way of achieving this goal.

Therefore the controversial decision was made at the end of the 1958 school year to change the character of the school from a boys' military and boarding school to a non-military, coeducational school, and to expand the program of the Lower School to include grades beginning with the pre-first grade. Serious efforts were made to re-establish the school as a community day school offering a strong college preparatory program to qualified boys and girls from the southwest side of Chicago. Mr. Frederic B. Withington became headmaster in the fall of 1958, and once again, the Academy became Morgan Park Academy.

From an enrollment in the 1958-1959 school year of 341 students, the school has grown to its current maximum enrollment of over 500 students, with the largest number of local students in history now attending the Academy. Over the past fifteen years, 98% of Academy graduates have matriculated at a wide variety of colleges and universities.

Since 1958, the physical plant of the Academy has undergone extensive modification. Several antiquated and unuseable buildings were removed from the campus complex. Hansen Hall, Alumni Hall and the gymnasium have all had extensive remodeling and modernization. In September of 1968, England Johnston Barker Memorial Hall was opened providing new classroom facilities for 200 Lower School students. With the completion of the Beverly Art Center on its campus in 1969, Morgan Park Academy once again had access to an auditorium, and to classroom areas for art and music instruction. Science laboratories and athletic facilities have been significantly improved, and the Library — now located in Upper Alumni — has doubled its book collection during this period.

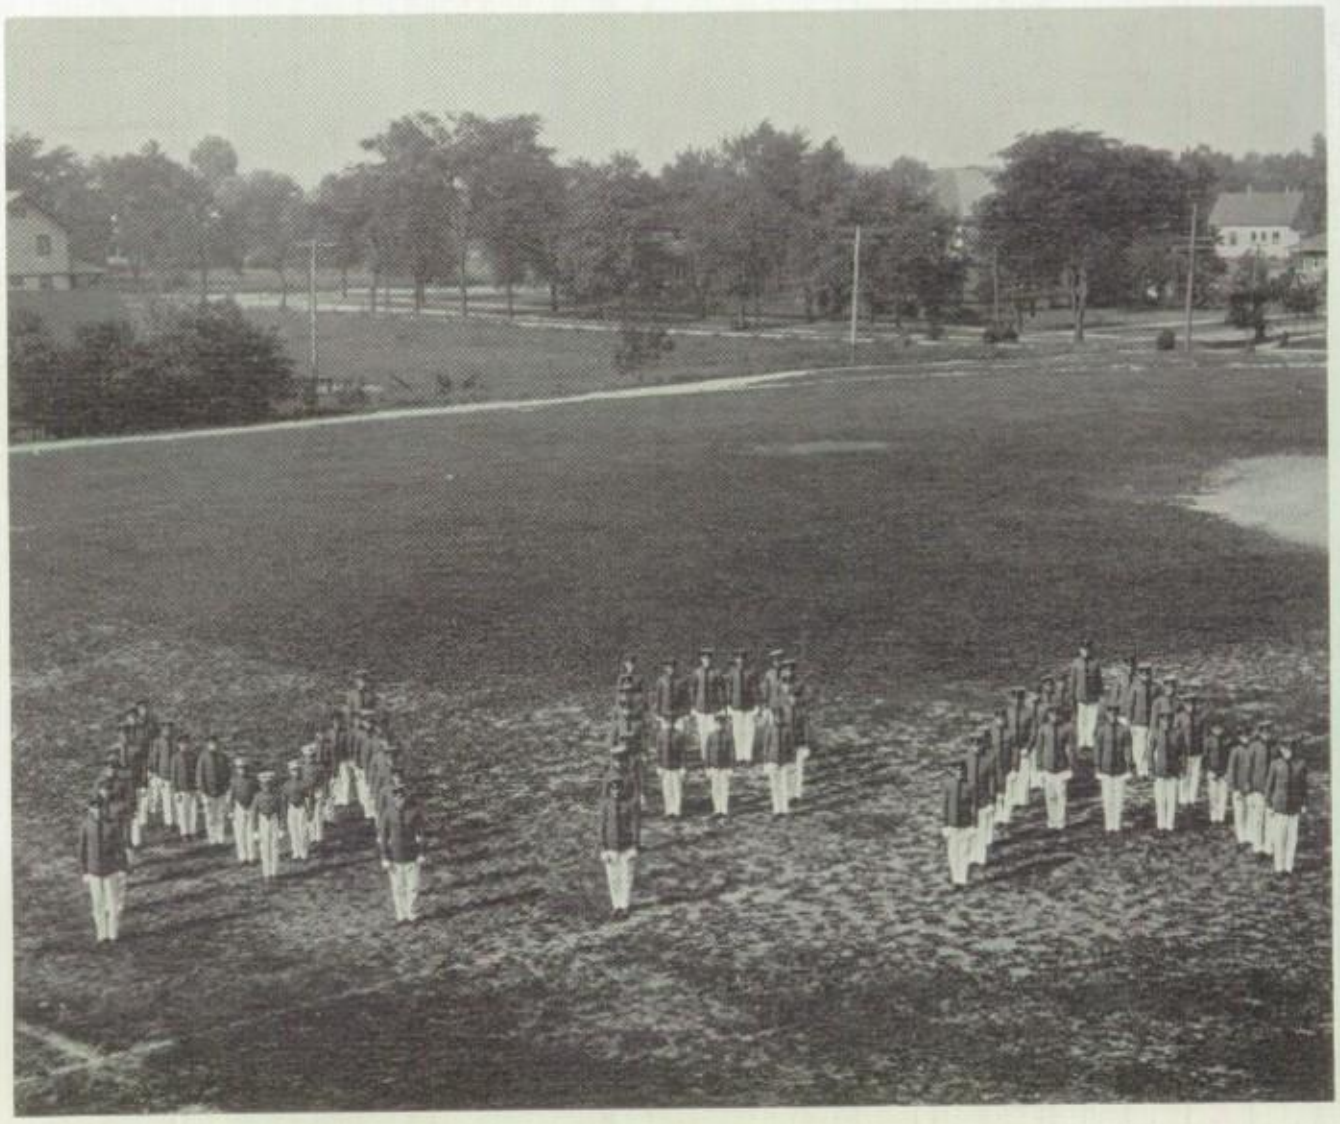
Mr. David A. Jones, who had joined the faculty of the Morgan Park Military Academy in 1957, was named to the position of headmaster in July of 1966. Under his direction, the Academy has continued its growth and development so that it once again has assumed its position as one of the leading independent schools in the Midwest. In an intensive evaluation conducted jointly last fall by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the Independent Schools Association of the Central States, the summarizing statement presented was, "Without question, the school is doing an excellent job of living up to its educational philosophy".

As Morgan Park Academy looks ahead to beginning a second century of educational endeavor, it is with the same spirit of dedication and the same determination to achieve the excellence which has characterized the school throughout its history.



I can not tarry longer.

The sea that calls all things unto her calls me, and I must embark.

For to stay, though the hours burn in the night, is to freeze and crystallize and be bound in a mould.

Fain would I take with me all that is here. But how shall I?

A voice cannot carry the tongue and the lips that gave it wings. Alone must it seek the ether.

And alone and without his nest shall the eagle fly across the sun.

The teacher who walks in the shadow of the temple, among his followers, gives not of his wisdom but rather of his faith and his lovingness.

If he is indeed wise he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind.

DAVID A. JONES
Headmaster

A 1912 graduate of MPA wrote to me recently saying that the Academy had done more for him than any college or university he had ever attended. You may or may not be able to say the same thing sixty years from now, but I do feel confident that you are leaving MPA well equipped to begin the next phase of your life. I wish you every success, both in college and thereafter. Congratulations and my sincere best wishes.

"In the depth of your hopes and desires lies your silent knowledge of the beyond;

And like seeds dreaming beneath the snow your heart dreams of spring . . . . . .

Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing.

And when you have reached the mountain top, then you shall begin to climb.

And when the earth shall claim your limbs, then you shall truly dance."

Seems I've got to have a change in scene,
Keep on havin' the strangest dream
Wonderin' 'bout the way things might have been.

"Apprivoiser veut dire — creer des liens . . . . . ."

Merci.

5 crazy, happy, sad years
Life here hasn't always been easy or pleasant
I met a lot of good people, a lot of bad
I found things I believed in, other things I saw through and rejected
But all these different people and experiences have helped me grow
And isn't that what life's all about?
With all the love and friendship I've shared
Somehow problems always seem to work themselves out.

**********

5 years . . . . . .

A lot of tears, feeling alone
A Tri girl — ha!
Driving around in the white tank with J.C. — feeling cool.
Loving my toiee.

"Summer of '72"
A soul and eye opening experience — the best!
Strasbourg, France.
Vaseline smeared eyes, tooth paste faces, a sexy blue velvet suit, a lovesick heart, 2 bottles of wine, skipping down the hall with Mom, "Tous les autres pensent que j'ai bu beaucoup.", "No Barb, it's 'J'ai beaucoup bu'".

A ma chaperone en France —
Merci beaucoup pour toutes les choses que tu as faites pour moi — en France a l'ecole, et dans la vie.

May the three Musketeers live on forever . . . . . .
You know, the trio people could never understand.
Good grief, a senior and 2 juniors — disgraceful!

**********

To my friends . . . . . .

"Your friend is your needs answered.
He is your field which you sow with love and reap with thanksgiving.
And he is your board and your fireside.
For you come to him with your hunger, and you seek him for peace.

And let your best be for your friend.
If he must know the ebb of your tide, let him know its flood also.
For what is your friend that you should seek him with hours to kill?
Seek him always with hours to live.
For it is his to fill your need, but not your emptiness.
And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter, and sharing of pleasures.
For in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed.." Barb

Farewell to you and the youth I have spent with you.

It was but yesterday we met in a dream.

You have sung to me in my aloneness, and I of your longings have built a tower in the sky.

But now our sleep has fled and our dream is over, and it is no longer dawn.

The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to fuller day, and we must part.

If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song.

And if our hands should meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky.
